Further building activity in Belle Glade was reported this week as foundations were poured for the construction of a dwelling being built by S. P. Adams in Hollywood's addition, near the Legion Hall facing West on Southeast First Street. Two more residences will be built in the same section, it was reported. All have been rented before construction and efforts will be made to sell the home, it was announced.

One way to tell if we are a civilized people. Take a line standing for an hour to see a game or a movie celebrity, and see how many flat-tights there are when folks nudge for positions.

REVIVAL IN BELLE GLADE IS CLOSED

Evangelist Wilburn L. Head delivered his closing sermon of the Belle Glade Baptist revival, which has been in progress for more than two weeks, last Wednesday night. The largest congregations ever to assemble for a religious service in the history of this town attended these services throughout the entire series. Dr. Head, assisted by the local choir and Director W. L. Cunningham, had charge of the music.

As one of the results, there were eighty eight new members added to the First Baptist Church and a number of others are expected later, according to the pastor, Dr. Wm. Marion Sentell. A number of others were reported to have professed conversion and signified their intention to join other churches.

Evangelistic services are announced by the pastor for both hours next Sunday with preaching by the pastor. The Sunday School meets at 10 a. m. with Mr. H. E. Jones as Superintendent and the young peoples societies meet at 6:30 p. m.

Dr. and Mrs. Head are moving their portable tabernacle to Canal Point where they will begin a similar series next Sunday, under the sponsorship of the Baptist church. They leave a host of new friends made in Belle Glade who will follow them with their interest and prayers. Under their wise and consecrated leadership Belle Glade experienced the greatest religious revival in years and many of its church leaders believe that greater results are yet to be seen.

REDMER JOINS LIONS

C. L. Redmer, city clerk of Belle Glade, was admitted to membership in the Belle Glade Lions Club at the weekly Wednesday meeting, February 19. It was also announced that the Lions Club would sponsor a carnival celebration at the American Legion hall early in April. Details of the event will be announced at a later date.

DEY AT POMPANO

The severe drought has greatly curtailed agricultural production on the lower East Coast, according to J. W. Ives of Miami who visited his Kreamer Island home and property interests there last week. The Pompano district has nearly completed their harvest, he said, and only growers who can control their water table by irrigation are able to continue farming operations.

The total fines amounted to over $248. N. D. Lloyd, conservation department agent from Belle Glade, was the prosecuting witness while R. E. Hupenick, Okechobee attorney, represented the defendants. It was charged that their nets were tied together to form an illegal net.

NEW CHURCH OPEN

The first services in the newly completed Christian Science Church of Belle Glade will be held this Sunday, according to present plans announced this week. The church was recently completed at a cost of about $2290. S. P. Adams was contractor and H. T. Holloway supervised building.

Garden Club Met

On-Tuesday

The Com. Garden Club held its February meeting, Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. T. M. Dechman in Pahokee.

There was a short business session during which it was decided to accept the invitation of the Clewiston Garden Club to be guests of that club in March.

Mrs. H. M. McIntosh was in charge of the program for the afternoon and she introduced the guest speaker, Prof. Julius Matz. Prof. Matz gave the club a delightful informal talk on "Quality." He first brought out that one of the prime differences between primitive and civilized man was the quality of things with which the latter surrounded himself.

Prof. Matz explained that by qualitatively one means the true nature of a subject, and that quality is never achieved through large, aggregate efforts but rather through small efforts marked with individualism. Individual interest gives the world a product of high quality.

To think qualitatively is to think according to true, real nature, or facts, therefore to get greatest satisfaction from growing plants is to know and understand them. Dr. Matz added to this in conclusion that one should use individual application and a definite plan in gardening in order to give gardens character and create lovely pictures.

After the meeting Mrs. Dechman and co-hostess, Mrs. A. W. Fowler served orange juice and home made cookies to the following members and guests: Mrs. J. E. Cochran, Sr., Julia Baned, C. G. Coburn, Carl Kilstad, Jane Chastain, C. A. Bailey, A. Hansen, J. S. Harrington, W. P. Jernigan, E.
